The consortium of the project involves the following partners:

This high profile, CPD accredited event aims to push the barriers of national and European policy-making and practice through the presentation of evidence-based solutions, and by allowing the voices that are rarely heard to lead debates that matter. The second day of the conference is dedicated to the results of the PROMYSE project and will focus on youth entrepreneurship, social entrepreneurship and business skills of unemployed youth. There are 200 euros available for bursaries to attend the conference. You can find more information here: <https://www.iars.org.uk/content/7IARScconference>.
