

PROM-Y-S-E: International Closing Conference in London

In the context of the 7th Annual IARS International Conference titled "European youth leading the way for employment & education", the PROMYSE International Closing Conference will take place in London (Lewisham Southwark College, Lewisham Way, London SE4 1UT), on Wednesday July 17th, 2019. The two days' conference (16th and 17 of July) aims to bring together young people, decision makers and scholars to debate solutions, identify best practices and create much needed networking opportunities for the disadvantaged youth in Europe.

The 7th Annual IARS International Conference is a high profile CPD accredited event and there will be 200 euros available for bursaries to attend the international Conference. You can find more information here: <https://www.iars.org.uk/content/7IARScconference>

Dr. Theo Gavrielides, IARS Founder and Director, said: "We look forward to welcome as many young people and decision makers as possible to this international and timely event. At a critical point in time for the UK and Europe, we hope that our youth-led approach and the Erasmus project results that we will be launching will help alleviate poverty and disadvantage for our young people".

"I'm looking forward to the conference so that I can take on opportunities for new experiences, gain insights into how to move forward in my career, and learn more about politics and our community. I'm especially interested in hearing experts discussing social entrepreneurship and in participating in the wide choice of workshops" said Rebecca from Youth Advisory Board.

The second day of the conference will focus on the PROMYSE project and specifically on the results, findings and tasks completed by all partners in the five countries participated in the project. PROMYSE's basic aim was to promote social entrepreneurship in the health/social care sectors as an alternative pathway to youth self-sustainability. IARS coordinated the project, which was delivered with 5 other partners from Europe, namely KMOP-Social Action and Innovation Centre (Greece), Icse & Co (Italy), Canary Wharf Consulting (UK), Diesis Coop (Belgium) and VŠĮ Diversity Development Group (Lithuania).

The tangible outcome and the legacy of the project, among others, is the capacity building and networking e-learning platform designed to provide social entrepreneurship and business skills in young people with relevant educational or professional background. The platform is available at: e-learning.promyse.eu.

Follow us on:

 promyse.eu

 info@promyse.eu

 facebook.com/promyseproject